

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A pointing device comprises a housing, a displacement signal generator located in the housing for generating
5 displacement signals, and an input panel installed on the housing for inputting image data. The image data inputted to the input panel is transmitted to a computer to perform an identification process.

09848374-050401
T04050-4284860